

Contents

List of Tables	page ix
Preface	xi
Conventions and Abbreviations	xvii
Introduction	1
Where to Look for Islamic Political Thought?	14
Ibn Taymiyya's Political Thought	26
The Contours	31
PART I THE CLASSICAL LEGACY
1. A Tale of Two Visions: Sharī'a and Siyāsa in Early Islam	37
What Happened? A Tale of Two Visions	48
From Khilāfa to Mulk, or Negotiating Shūrā and Jamā'a	63
The Rise of the Sunna-Centered Variant	74
2. The Political Thought of the Classical Period	93
Siyāsa and Fiqh	95
Statecraft and the Ulama	97
The Caliphate Discourse	107
Caliphate, Reason, and Revelation	128
The Disappearance of the Community	131
3. Reason and Community in the Classical Period	137
Sunni Kalām	139
Falsafa, Epistemology, and Political Organization	144
The Principle of Interpretation (Qānūn al-ta'wīl)	147
Losing Faith in Reason	154

PART II THE TAYMIYYAN INTERVENTION

4. Ibn Taymiyya's World	173
Rational-Revelational Criticism as the Response to the Crisis	177
Ibn Taymiyya and Ash'arism: Construction and Criticism	189
5. Defending Revelation and Liberating Reason	196
Dar' Ta'arud: Ibn Taymiyya's Magnum Opus	196
Fiṭra as the Alternative Epistemological Foundation	215
6. Fiṭra, Community, and Islamic Politics	228
Fiṭra and the Community's Rectitude	229
Political Justice against Formalism in Judicial Doctrine	232
The Case for Shari'a Politics	235
Formal Doctrine: Ibn Taymiyya and the Caliphate	252
7. Conclusion	266
Bibliography	275
Index	289