

Contents

Notes on the Contributors	vii
Introduction: Beyond Law and Order – Crime and Criminology into the 1990s Robert Reiner and Malcolm Cross	1
1 Privatisation and the Police Function: From ‘New Police’ to ‘New Policing’ Les Johnston	18
2 ‘Creeping Privatisation’? The Police, the Conservative Government and Policing in the Late 1980s Philip Rawlings	41
3 Chief Constables in England and Wales: A Social Portrait of a Criminal Justice Elite Robert Reiner	59
4 The Dual Role of the Royal Ulster Constabulary in Northern Ireland Kathleen Magee	78
5 Mirroring the Market? Police Reorganisation and Effectiveness Against Drug Trafficking Nicholas Dorn, Karim Murji and Nigel South	91
6 Investigating Tax and Supplementary Benefit Fraud Dee Cook	107
7 Community Involvement in Criminal Justice: The Representativeness of Volunteers R. I. Mawby	120
8 A Fresh Start: Managing the Prison Service Roy D. King and Kathleen McDermott	134

9	Under Siege: Probation in a Changing Environment Tim May	158
10	Partnership in a Local Juvenile Justice System: The Case for Marginality Kate Lyon	186
11	Victims, Crime Prevention and Social Control Sandra Walklate	204
12	Left Realism in Criminology and the Return to Consensus Theory Kevin Stenson and Nigel Brearley	223
	Index	248