

Contents

List of tables and figures	vii
Acknowledgements	ix
one	A victim-centred approach to conceptualising 'hate crime' I
	Conceptual disarray of the notion of 'hate crime' 2
	'Hate crime' as a scholarly domain 5
	The harms of 'hate crime' 6
	From extreme to everyday 'hate crime' 13
	From the background to the foreground of 'hate crime' 17
	Conclusion: situating the victim at the centre of 'hate crime' 20
two	The normality of everyday 'hate crime' 23
	The commonalities of everyday 'hate crime' 24
	Structure, action, agency and everyday 'hate crime' 39
	Conclusion: the significance of the situational dynamics of 'hate crime' 42
three	The spatial dynamics of everyday 'hate crime' 45
	London: capital of diversity 45
	London: capital of 'hate crime' 47
	Inter-group friction and 'race-hate crime' 52
	Power differentials and 'race-hate crime' 53
	The geography of everyday 'hate crime' 59
	Defended neighbourhoods 61
	The political economy of 'hate crime' 64
	Conclusion: life in the city and everyday 'hate crime' 70
four	Tensions in liberalism and the criminalisation of 'hate' 73
	How 'hate crimes' hurt more 74
	Punishing 'hate crime' offenders for their bad values 83
	Everyday 'hate crime' and the declaratory value of 'hate crime' laws 86
	Conclusion: legislating morality 92

five	Including victims of 'hate crime' in the criminal justice policy process	95
	'Race-hate' crime and multi-agency working in the European Union	96
	Multi-agency working and victims of 'race-hate crime' in the UK	97
	'Race-hate crime' and multi-agency cooperation city-wide in London	100
	The 'silo-approach' to 'hate crime'	108
	Conclusion: lessons from the London-wide Race Hate Crime Forum	111
six	Conclusions: understanding everyday 'hate crime'	115
	A victim-centered approach to understanding 'hate crime' offending	117
	'Hate crime' and the criminologies of everyday life	120
	'Hate crime', human rights and 'the state'	122
	Appendix A: The UK's 'hate crime' laws	127
	Appendix B: The process of 'hate crime'	131
	Appendix C: Controversy about the extent of the anti-Muslim backlash following the July 2005 London bombings	133
	Appendix D: Ethnic group composition of the London boroughs (2001 Census)	137
	Appendix E: Black and Asian minority ethnic (BME) group population proportions and diversity scores for the London boroughs (1991 and 2001)	139
	Appendix F: Methodology of the evaluation of the London-wide Race Hate Crime Forum	141
	References	143
	Index	153