

Contents

1	Introduction	1
2	When Crime Is Sublime	5
3	Effervescent and Ready for Use: The Sublime and Other Emotions in the Carnival of Crime	51
4	In the Cultural Criminology Hall of Mirrors	99
5	From Sublime to Resentment: Emotional Trajectories When Watching Crime on TV	117
6	In the Wild Land in Search of a Story: Dark Tourism	165
7	This Is a Taboo Business: The Murderabilia Market from Sacred to Profane	219

x Contents

8	Attacks or Fireworks? The Spectacularisation of the Anders Breivik Massacre	249
9	Conclusion	285
	Index	293