

CONTENTS

List of Figures page ix

Acknowledgments x

Introduction 1

PART I Drivers of Change in the World of Cultural Property

- 1 Changing Winds in the Cross-Border Politics
of Cultural Property 13
 - 1.1 The Benin Bronzes and Beyond 13
 - 1.2 Introducing the Concept of “New Cultural Internationalism” 24
- 2 Lawmaking, Law Enforcement, and “Legalistic Ethical Reasoning” 34
 - 2.1 Legal Divergence in a Global, High-End Market
for Cultural Objects 34
 - 2.2 Evolution – and Limits – of International Institutions and Legal Norms 52
 - 2.3 Regional and Bilateral Collaboration in Law Enforcement 78
 - 2.4 Legalistic Ethical Reasoning for the Return
of Cultural Property 98
- 3 The Evolution of Norms on Due Diligence
and Provenance Research 103
 - 3.1 Prologue: Provenance in Musée du Louvre,
the Met, and Kunsthaus Zürich 103
 - 3.2 Practices of Market Opacity 110
 - 3.3 Due Diligence as a Legal, Professional, and Ethical Norm for Cultural Property 115
 - 3.4 The Changing Role and Scope of Provenance Research 132
- 4 The Transformative Role of Digital Databases 156
 - 4.1 Digital Benin 156

- 4.2 Digitally Accessible Databases on Cultural Property 163
4.3 Cultural Property Databases as Cross-Border Standard-Setters 181

PART II The Legal Future of Cultural Property: A Normative Blueprint

- 5 A Theory of Ownership and Custody of Cultural Objects 193
5.1 Introduction: The Cultural Institution as Proprietor and Custodian 193
5.2 The Italian Case for Eternal Appropriation of Images of Cultural Property 195
5.3 Redefining the Museum: Implications for Its Role as Custodian of Culture 204
5.4 Toward a Theory of Proprietary Rights and Duties vis-à-vis Cultural Objects 209
5.5 Concluding Observations 227
- 6 Restitution for an Era of New Cultural Internationalism 230
6.1 Lessons from the Restitution Practices for Nazi-Looted Assets 231
6.2 “Just and Fair Solutions” in Other Contexts? France and Colonial-Era Objects 244
6.3 Reconsidering Remedial Mechanisms for Collective Claims 253
6.4 Coda: Toward Convergence of Law, Policy, and Markets for Cultural Property 265

Index 267